

Wolves kill for the pure pleasure of killing...

Linda, this is wolf reintroduction for us. On Friday morning, March 25, an 850# replacement heifer was killed and another had her rectum torn out and was later put down. A pack of four or five wolves traveled right through a herd of 150 elk to get to our cattle. The scariest part of this is the fact these wolves are traveling through densely populated areas and very near towns. People here are concerned, because wolves are coming right into their yards. Many of the neighbors have had losses, and many are concerned for their safety and the safety of their children and grandchildren. These wolves aren't afraid of people and they kill just to kill not eat.

Kayce Workman
Absarokee, MT

